

Hello YETI team,

I found the Chief Information Officer position open on Glassdoor. I want to apply because I'm looking to take the next step in my career and would love to work for an Austin based company where we share the value of being outdoors.

At Barclaycard, I organized and managed a department of 125 at with an $11M budget. My global team had responsibilities covering devops, infrastructure, operations and application development. Prior to that, I led around 150 software engineers of various disciplines for the PayPal Global Credit Expansion program. I successfully collaborate across varying departments as well as from the executive to the individual contributor. My collaboration style is essential in gaining consensus for strategic directions as well as maintaining trust and openness in my teams. I have a track record of building top-talent teams which support business priorities and drive growth.

I'm looking forward to talking with your talented team in the hopes of being able to help drive your mission.

Thank you,

Shawn Catoe
